MINNESOTA REPUBLICANS.

THE STATE CONVENTION.

At the Republican State Convention held at St. Paul, Minnesota, on Wednesday, John G. Pillsbury was nominated for Governor, Joseph R. Wakefield, Lieutenant-governor, Secretary of state, John S. Ireland; State auditor, O. P. Whitcomb (present incumbent); State treasurer, William Pfaender; attorney-general, George P. Wilson (present incumbent); clerk of the supreme court, Samuel L. Nichols, railroad commissioner, Charles A. Gilman.

The convention made no resolutions on the [illegible] of the supreme court, but in recognition of the unanimous wish of the legal profession of the State, as well as the general judgment of men of all classes, which has found expression in executive appointments, we commend for election to that position the present incumbent, Judge James A. Gilfillan, a man pre-eminently qualified for the high position

The following is the platform adopted:—

First—The Republicans of Minnesota reaffirm the cardinal principles of that party which have been established, that the prosperity of both the State and national governments shall be unity and indissolubility of the nation, equal rights, and the just protection of all men before the law

Second—That on the paramount questions of the day we favor that policy of finance which shall steadily keep in view a return to specie payments.

Third—A tariff strictly for revenue, yet so adjusted as to be the least burdensome and the most favorable to the interests of home industry and labor.

Fourth—We demand that all railways and other corporations shall be held in fair and just subjection to the law-making power, constitutionally exercised.

Fifth—That we cordially indorse the progressive and liberal policy of the republican party in its well-defined and clearly-announced purpose to foster the agricultural, industrial and commercial interests of the country by a judicious system of internal improvements, having for their object the enlargement of facilities and the reduction in the cost of transportation for inter-State commerce

Sixth—That to the republican party is justly due the honor and credit of securing for the first time, recognition by foreign governments for full and complete rights of citizenship in reversal of the monarchical doctrine that a subject cannot absolve himself from allegiance to his sovereign by naturalization under our laws

Seventh—We heartily commend the honesty, and efficiency of the present State administration, and point with satisfaction to the fact that it has reduced the aggregate State taxes 20 per cent. within the last two years

Eighth—That the example of Washington, in refusing to be a candidate for a third presidential term, and the affirmance by President Grant of that principle, is one we sincerely cherish, and we should regard a departure from it a dangerous innovation

Ninth—That we approve of the present republican national administration, especially its earnest efforts to collect the revenue, to prevent and punish fraud, to expose past violations and to guard against their recurrence in the future.

Tenth—That we indorse the policy of adjusting difficulties between this and foreign nations by arbitration instead of war, and to a decade of justice, peace and humanity we shall hail the day when this policy shall be adopted throughout the world.

Eleventh—A grateful people can never forget the services of her soldiers, and it is due to them that liberal and generous should be observed in matters of back pay of bounties and pensions

Twelfth—That since the purity and permanency of the free institutions of the government depend upon the universal diffusion of knowledge and virtue among the people, the republican party of Minnesota reaffirms its fixed determination that it is the duty of the State, not only to maintain the integrity of the common school system, but to do all that it is needful so to increase its efficiency as to secure the blessings of wise and generous education to every child within its border.

THE SINKING FUND

We give place to-day to a communication from George M. Weston, Esq., with which we have something to endorse the views which he presents. The ground taken by those who supported Governor Dingley in prolonging the time for the payment of the public debt was that the loss was a just one or it was a needless hardship to the present generation and that the rights of the public creditor, as well as the interests of the tax payer, could be protected and promoted by the Governor's policy. Undoubtedly the immediate effect of the new policy is to lessen somewhat the rate of annual taxation but whether in the end it will prove either wiser or cheaper cannot now be determined. Another Legislature will meet before the policy is one practical and in force to any considerable extent. Mr. Weston intimates the situation will be said much as it is if the bonds added to the sinking fund were left to accumulate at compound interest.

Mr. Weston intimates that the holders of State Bonds are afraid of this change in regard to the sinking fund. Quite the contrary was the fact. The protest against the change came solely from those who desired such investments for the sake of the security and the profit that they would afford. The trouble with Mr. Dingley's policy is not in the principle but in the amount. If over taxation is to be resorted to for the purpose of paying the debt, it is the part of wisdom to make the burden as light as possible. The people will not complain of taxation for the payment of the debt if they are satisfied that the money is honestly and economically expended. Mr. Blaine's name with the transaction of the Legislature of 1873 and before the special commission appointed to examine all bills against the State whose name and the fact of engaging in Mr. Blaine's service practically drew land not to the credit of any such thing. There are witnesses of high or low degree credible or incredible, honest or dishonest, who can bear to the fact that Mr. Blaine having any connection with the transaction or knew of any person who did know or who pretended to know of any such thing.

Hon. George A. Talbot of Portland Hon. Alfred Washburn of Bangor, and General Selden Connor of Augusta, were appointed on March 1870 a commission to investigate the whole affair with the amplest power to send for persons and papers. They were engaged in their thorough labors for months a year, and so far from electing any fact in the remotest degree pointing to Mr. Blaine's connection with the matter, they took special pains to acknowledge their obligations to him for the aid he had rendered them in their investigation. After stating that they found it difficult to get the requisite information from the Departments at Washington, and that at one time they felt completely baffled in their investigations the Commissioners in their final report say

In this dilemma we replied to the Hon. James G. Blaine Speaker of the National House of Representatives, and member of Congress from the Third District of the State. His apprehension of the precise nature of our inquiries was prompt and complete, and to his effective intervention by personal appeals at the Departments, where our requisitions for documents were waiting compliance, we consider ourselves largely indebted for whatever information from those sources we have been able to obtain."

In another place in their report, where they found themselves embarrassed, the Commissioners say that "Mr. Blaine promptly aided us with his influence." And throughout their entire report of over five hundred pages, there is not an intimation or hint of any fact or incident not wholly honorable to Mr. Blaine.

Mr. Pillsbury may therefore hug to his breast the pleasing delusion that he is charged, except that it shall be "for a loan as equal amount" of the bonds issued to be redeemed. No advertisement is prescribed and no proposals for the new loan solicited. It is a matter of three millions of dollars—everything is left to the discretion of the State Treasurer, with no other expression of the Legislature except their implied satisfaction in advance with an exchange of new bonds for old, dollar for dollar.

If this loan, thus intended to be had now is six per cent. could be negotiated when the necessity for it arrives, not even lower than five per cent, the State would save two hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars in interest, and the probabilities favor a lower rate of interest than five, in such security as the credit of Maine will be in 1880 1883 and 1889 with the debt assumed for the towns reduced and extinguished by a sinking fund, happily placed beyond legislative tampering.

We have a State Treasurer who has not yet entered upon this premature exchange of bonds, and who, it is believed, does not intend to enter upon it until a new Legislature can be convened. It is another omen of encouragement that the Gubernatorial candidate of the dominant party is said to be in the habit of advising upon public affairs with Mr. Blaine. I know too little of party politics, or of the personal relations of politicians, to know whether this is true or not, but it seems probable from local and other circumstances, and we may fairly hope that it is true. Mr Blaine more conspicuously than any other leading public man, has plumed himself upon the policy of steady reduction of all our debts, National State and municipal. He has vindicated it with admirable clearness and vigor, and where even his counsels can aid to carry it into practical effect he can be relied upon to support it. It would not, indeed, be too much to hope from a State administration, of which he was a leading adviser, a generation, in some form, of the sinking fund so hastily swept away last winter.

GEO. M. WESTON.

THANKS TO MR. ADAMS.

The following letter has been addressed to Hon. Charles Francis Adams, of Boston, by the students of Colby University before whom he delivered an oration on last Tuesday evening, for which he would accept no compensation.

HON. CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS.

Dear Sir—Will you permit the students in Colby University, most respectfully to express our hearty thanks for the address delivered on the evening of the 27th inst. and to assure you that it gave us new and definite views of our responsibility as American citizens, and an inspiration for our work, which we are confident, will not soon abate.

As you do not suffer us to give you any other recognition of its service so valuable to us, we are forced to content ourselves with the tenderest expression of it.

Very gratefully, on behalf of, and by direction of the students,

J. O. FILTON, '76,

THE RESULT OF IT

[From the Kennebec Journal.]

In a recent article we spoke of the queer logic of E. F. Pillsbury in the controversy between himself and Captain Boutelle, of the BANGOR WHIG AND COURIER, in which the latter accused Pillsbury with having "incited resistance to the draft." In the issue of the Maine Standard following this charge in THE WHIG, Pillsbury published a card calling Capt. Boutelle "a liar." After a few days THE WHIG rejoined, substantiating its charge against Pillsbury by extracts taken from the columns of the Farmington Patriot of which he was editor during the war.

This evidence presented by Captain Boutelle of the truth of the accusation which he made against Pillsbury the latter made no attempt to disprove, but assailed the editor of THE WHIG in a most scurrilous and unmanly personal article. A cunningham of a crime committed upon the high seas.

We called attention to the queer logic of Pillsbury when, in replying to Boutelle, he dropped the original issue and raised by him entirely new and remarked that Mr Pillsbury will never in that way escape from the charge of having, in the hour of his country's sorest trial, incited resistance to the draft." We also copied from the WHIG the article in which the new charge of Pillsbury against Boutelle was disposed of.

Last week the Journal failed to make any reply to the denial of Capt Boutelle of the charges made against him. If the logic of Pillsbury was queer, this conclusion of the matter is also queer. Pillsbury started out with calling Boutelle a liar, he winds up, after skulking away from his own record as mayor in the Farmington Patriot by a sneaking admission through his silence that he did not repeat or attempt to sustain his new charge against Boutelle. According to present appearances Pillsbury should be branded both as a liar and a sneak.

In some States it would be regarded as hardly dignified for a candidate for the highest office in the State to go about belittling by his popularity, and challenging bets on the votes of certain localities. Yet this gentle allusion will probably be regarded as abuse."

The "spunkless" editor of the Maine Standard is experiencing an uncomfortable elevation of temperature for dog days. He is roasting in a fire of his own kindling—Bath Times.

THE SINKING FUND LEGISLATION.

BANGOR, July 30, 1875.

To the Editor of the Whig and Courier

As is well known, the Legislature of last winter, under the lead of Governor Dingley, reversed a policy of the State supposed to be settled and abolished the sinking fund, which would have paid off at maturity the several loans negotiated to meet the necessities of the late civil war. The act by which this was done was passed without discussion, and the details of it, although of great importance, have attracted no newspaper discussion and are probably unknown to the masses of the people.

The framers of this act, who may have been the financial committee, who reported it or some influenced lobby who furnished it ready made for legislative ratification did not content themselves with abolishing the sinking fund, great a triumph as that was for the men who live upon public debts and upon the taxation of the industry of others. They superadded to it what was intended to be a piece of robbery by which they would gain, and the people lose fully a round quarter of a million of dollars. They have not yet pocketed the money, but that is only for the reason that no State Treasurer whom they have not been able to manipulate but they have secured the legislation necessary for their purposes, and they surely will realize their intended gains unless public attention is directed to their schemes before it is too late.

The loans negotiated to meet the calls of the civil war mature in 1880 1883 and 1889, and as reduced by the sinking fund aggregate now about three millions of dollars. There could be no honest purpose in now renewing loans which are payable five, eight and fourteen years hence. It is notorious that we are just emerging from an epoch of extraordinarily high rates of interest, and it is a universal belief that the tendency of these rates is and will be downward. An individual who would now repudiate a renewal of private debts not falling due for five, eight and fourteen years would be set down as a madman. Such things do not happen with individuals, but ours in public affairs, where the loss falls on the tax-payers, and the profits are pulled among those who shape legislation.

This premature renewal of loans, provided for last winter was made not only in the face of the common conviction that interest will be lower in 1880, 1883 and 1889, than it is now, but in the face of the certainty that the credit of the State will be strong or in those years than it is now. Under existing constitutional provisions, new debts cannot be contracted, except for war purposes, and a large existing debt, caused by assuming town war debts, being now about two and one-half millions of dollars, as in the course of steady and certain extinction under the operation of a sinking fund which cannot be abolished by any Governor, Legislature or financial lobby. When 1880, 1883 and 1889 come, the State will owe materially less money than it owes now, will be richer than it is now, and can borrow money more cheaply than it can now. Nobody understood that better than the financial manipulators of last winter. They were determined to take time by the forelock, and get the long six per cent. bonds of Maine now, and not wait for the times, still for them, when they may be glad to get five per cent bonds, or even four per cent bonds.

The first section of the act of last winter provides for the issue of six per cent. bonds, interest payable semi-annually, at Augusta or Boston at the option of the holders, of which $200,000 are to mature in 1890 and $200,000 in each succeeding year. As three millions are to be issued, the last payable bonds will mature in 1905. And this section provides that these bonds shall be issued, "as they can be substituted for at least an equal amount of the outstanding bonds of the State which they are intended to retire and extend." This exchange is authorized and implicitly directed to be made now for bonds none of which mature for five years. There is no single safeguard thrown around the ex-

Mr. I. B. Coane, formerly of Lewiston, will deliver a free lecture at City Hall to-morrow evening.

The excursion of the steamship Howell to Northport and Castine yesterday was a very pleasant affair.

The idea of an excursion to Old Orchard meets with universal approval, and there is no doubt that a large party would go.

Those interested will please remember the auction sale of the house, No 10, Hudson street, at 3 o'clock, this afternoon.

The police think the Universalist church steps must possess some extraordinary attraction for young people of an evening.

The preliminary examination of William Montgomery, charged with arson, will be held before Judge Goodenow this forenoon.

Persons wishing to visit Fort Point by the Saturday evening boat can return to this city Sunday evening or Monday morning

President Allen, of the State College, has been severely indisposed for two or three weeks past, but is now somewhat improved in health.

Some fifty men are engaged on the Water Works—about thirty at the site of the building and the others at the ledge near Mr Mann's house.

Dudrill Wyman, of West Levant, raised 1,737 boxes of strawberries this season on half an acre of land, for which he received the sum of $232.25.

The Lewiston Journal makes a pleasant notice of the marriage in that city of Mr. D. F Kelleher, of the firm of C. W. Worrill & Co., of this city.

Mr. John K. Skinner, of Brewer, the well-known foll-gatherer for twenty-three years past, died at his home at a ripe, aged seventy-six years.

Mrs. Dudley has purchased the residence known as the Crane house, on Upper hill, which is being thoroughly repaired and improved throughout.

Members of the Art Association are requested of the important special meeting at 7.30 o'clock this evening, at which the matter of an excursion to Old Orchard will be considered.

We are informed that Jacob Jones and P. B. Sabin have been chosen delegates from Lagrange to the Republican District Convention. As our informant did not sign his name we omit his statement of the leaning of the delegates.

We saw a drawing yesterday of the proposed new block of stores to be built on the burnt district by F. A. Emith, Esq., and it promises to be a handsome structure which will lend greatly to improve the appearance of our principal business thoroughfare

A QUINTETTE IN QUOD. Five men were arrested on Dirigo street late last night for making a disturbance. The police had a lively rencontre with the fellows before they were finally captured and taken in. One of the fellows, after having been unexpectedly "sat on" and flattened by a heavy "star," said he'd go to Thomaston and done with it rather than have that sort of a horse foled on him again.

HYERS SISTERS. A sacred concert is to be given in Norombega Hall to-morrow evening by the Hyers sisters' Company, under the auspices of the Ladies' Crusade. The programme is made up of selections that cannot fail to gratify the tastes of the music-loving public, and the organization is one of sterling merit. There should be a full house and those who have not already secured seats can do so at Bagley's.

GEORGIA MINSTRELS. Of this popular organization, which will give entertainments in this city next Friday and Wednesday evenings, the Boston Journal says:

"As to the merits of this company, it is enough to say that any one who attends their performances is in danger of falling into a chronic state of laughter. The troupe is made up of gentlemen whose faces vary in shade from the lightest mulatto to those upon whom charcoal would [illegible] with [illegible]. The troupe have been [illegible] and [illegible] to be appreciated. No minstrel company has ever equalled such [illegible] whose amount had been [illegible].

ROBBERY OF PYTHIAS. The [illegible] excursion train which left St. [illegible] for the [illegible] yesterday, reached the Exchange street depot at ten minutes before 9 o'clock this morning. The [illegible] were received in the most [illegible] manner by the [illegible] and a large number of [illegible] ladies were at the depot to meet their friends. The Knights and others of the party were in the highest spirits, and upon leaving the train formed in position, and, preceded by the Band, marched up Exchange street and down to the bridge, where they disbanded. En route they sang "Marching through Georgia" with a will, and before separating gave three cheers and a tiger for the Band, and the same for Chancellor Commander Smith. None seemed in the slightest fatigued by the trip, with which all expressed the most unbounded satisfaction, the only regret being that they can never get even with the St. John boys.

PERSONAL. Among the prominent gentlemen who came from a distance to attend the Commencement at Colby University, was Hon. Everett E. Patterson, of St. Louis, Mo., whose father was at one time President of the College. Mr. Patterson has attained an enviable reputation for his legal attainments which found scope in an elaborate Report of Decisions for the State of Missouri, a work which we have alluded to as ranked as a standard contribution to the legal lore of the country. Mr. P. is lingering to spend a short season on the sea coast of Maine, and while in this city accompanied by his wife, has been the guest of Hon S. H Blake, at whose residence a num ber of prominent citizens were invited to meet him last evening. The occasion was a very pleasant one to all concerned.

We learn that Parker W. Perry, Esq., recently assigned as Supervisor of Internal Revenue for New England, has established his office and headquarters in this city.

The Portland Advertiser states that Hon. Hannibal Hamlin has made a donation of $1,000 to the Library fund of Colby University.

We were pleased yesterday to meet Geo. F. Hammatt, Esq., of Boston, formerly of this city, who is spending a few weeks with friends in Frankfort.

FIRE IN HAMPDEN

A Disastrous Conflagration Early Yesterday Morning at the Lower Corners—Another Case of Incendiarism.

Total Destruction of a Block of Three Stores, a Livery Stable and Other Buildings.

Between 3 and 4 o'clock yesterday morning the inhabitants of Hampden Lower Corners, about six miles from this city, were aroused by an alarm of fire, which was found to be located in the livery stable of Elliot & Brown. There being no engine or other apparatus for fighting fire, the only available method was to bring water from the nearest wells by pails. A large number of people were soon on the spot using every exertion possible to stay the progress of the conflagration, and remove property from adjacent stores and buildings. Very rapidly the flames extended to Crowell's harness shop on the north, and up the block of three wooden stores on the south, and within an hour these together with Packard's store around the corner, were a mass of ruins. The barn and ell of Murch's house, next to the last named store, were also destroyed, and the house was badly damaged. Two or three houses beyond the northern limits of the main fire, that of Mrs. Young, caught from the sparks blown in that direction, and her barn and shed were burned, while the main dwelling was with difficulty saved. The losses were much in excess of the salvage, and the proportion of insurance was unusually small.

LOSSES ON THE BLOCK.

The wooden block of three stores was owned by Messrs. Reed Snow and B. F Brown. The building was worth about $3,000, which was not more than half insured. Captain Daniel Stone's store contained a stock valued at $2,000, which was saved in a damaged condition, and on which there was $500 insurance. Hiram Sylvester's stock was also saved, with an estimated loss of $100, on which there was no insurance. Reed Snow's stock of wood was damaged $300 worth, with no insurance. The family of John Crowell, who lived over Snow's store, saved their furniture in a badly damaged condition. The library and furniture were saved from the office of S. W. Mathews, Esq. Miss Sylvester, dressmaker, suffered a small loss.

OTHER LOSSES.

The loss on the livery stable of Elliot & Brown is estimated at $1,000, on which there was no insurance. The eleven horses were got out in safety, and the carriages and harnesses were removed, but a considerable other property was destroyed, including several sleighs and a quantity of hay.

The loss of stock in John Crowell's harness shop is $300; loss on furniture, $100; loss on the building, $500, which was owned by Elliot & Brown. The second story of the harness shop was occupied by B. F. Brown, his household furniture and effects being saved in a damaged condition.

Henry Packard' loss is estimated at $4,000 on which there was no insurance. His stock and furniture were saved in a damaged condition.

The loss of Mrs. Young on her barn and shed is estimated at $300, which was fully covered by insurance.

The loss of Albert Murch is estimated at $3,000, there being $650 insurance on the buildings. The furniture, on which there was an insurance of $150, was removed, but badly damaged.

CAUSE OF THE CONFLAGRATION.

The fire is supposed to have been set by incendiaries, and it is stated that two tramps were seen about the village during the preceding evening, but who had disappeared before morning.

Considering the difficulties under which they labored, the people did remarkably well in preventing the further spread of the flames. While at work with a will, none were more here or in their efforts than Mrs. George Delano, who "mauned" one of the pumps, and remained at her post supplying water till her hands were blistered and bloody.

Crops in Corinth.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE WHIG AND COURIER.)

EAST CORINTH, July 28.

THE CROPS.

The farmers in this town and vicinity are nearly through haying; they have had good weather and have secured their hay in fine condition. The quantity of hay cut will exceed that of a number of years past and will be of most excellent quality.

The grain crop promises to be an abundant one, wheat especially so; barley, oats and rye more than an average.

Potatoes, corn, beans and all other final crops, have looked better at this season of the year.

The apple crop is not looking very promising; probably there will not be more than half a crop as compared with last [illegible] the Lottery was a little over 19 cwt.; the highest number of [illegible] received in the month of June was 20,298 pounds; average per day for the month of June, 4,164 pounds; average number of pounds of milk for 26 days in July = 6,300, which is probably the largest amount of milk received during the time for the first year of any factory in the State. The largest amount of milk received in any one day so far is 6,723 pounds. The number of cheese made is 367; number made for the 26 days in July, 361; whole number to date, 616; which, at an average weight of 53 pounds to a cheese, would make 31,324 pounds to date. The number of cheese sold up to this date is 50.

The quality of the cheese made thus far has proved to be most excellent and there is a ready demand for it at present prices. The whole cost of the factory, including lot, apparatus, and everything pertaining to it is $1,892.13.

THE CANVASS IN KENNEBEC

A SOLDIER REPLIES THE ASSERTION THAT THE YOUNG MEN ARE FOR ROBERTS—ON THE CONTRARY IT IS QUITE THE REVERSE

AUGUSTA, July 29.

To the Editor of the Whig and Courier

I notice in the Argus of the 23d inst., an item taken from the Bangor Commercial headed The "Reason of it," which says that "three-fourths if not four-fifths of the young men between the ages of 21 and 35 are earnestly for Gen. Roberts," and also learns that "in this town all up and down the river the young men show the same political tendency of those of Bangor." Also "This fact has filled Blaine with the greatest alarm. He sees the same tendency directly under his eyes in Augusta." We, over here on the Kennebec would have believed the statements, as quickly, had he put it at four-fifths,

Not desirous of noticing the falsehoods for which the Bangor Commercial and Maine Standard are notorious, we, still, in justice to our city and county, can hardly allow so stupendous a lie as that set forth in the second paragraph of the article referred to, to go unchecked.

The man who says verbally or otherwise that such is the political tendency in Augusta or in this county, falsifies. Had the writer left us out, who are over here "under Mr. Blaine's eyes," we should have felt that the thoughtful, intelligent and honest people of Bangor and the Penobscot, had long ago learned and understood the character and life of such a sheet, as to pass it by, unworthy of any consideration whatever.

The good people of Kennebec county, as a general thing, take but little notice of such slimy material, as is published weekly in the columns of the Commercial and Standard. They have no respect for such papers or their political contents. Those sheets have overdone themselves, and even our Democratic friends do not hesitate to say so, but freely acknowledge this fact. Only this week we were talking with two intelligent and leading Democrats of this city and both frankly avowed that the odious personalities and falsified positions assumed by these papers, would add nothing to their status or strength as a party. Every article or squib from their pens is tinctured with "vila odium," which seems to run through their brains like electricity. If Mr. Blaine could only collect a royalty for furnishing these Democratic journals with so much material day after day and week after week, it would afford a large income.

The Commercial says "there is reason for the wide-spread determination among the young men of Maine to vote for Gen. Roberts," that "the election of Gen. Conner would mean nothing but the continuation of Blaineism," and what have the young men to hope for from that?" Well, we young men over here say, let us have a little more Blaineism, and we are quite willing to take a good deal more. Mr. Blaine has done much for the young men of our State since he has been in public life, and no State is more ably represented, or its interests better cared for, than ours to-day, through Mr. Blaine's energy and liberality.

We have nothing to say against General Roberts or his short service in every career in serving his country during the dark hours of the rebellion, save this: He proposes to allow himself to be for all that he does know. To illustrate the difference in a business point of view, let us open an account with the two candidates for Governor of our State, and let every soldier or citizen look at the figures. Were you, Mr. Editor, in business, and should open two accounts, for $11,000, if he paid you one-quarter of this amount, you would give him credit for the rest, leaving the balance to stand. On the other hand, if the other gave you $5,000, and made you the point that you were [illegible] in the matter, you would [illegible] the account in his favor. Take [illegible] Of [illegible] over Boston [illegible] To the latter we give credit for serving his country one year and four months; the former (Gen. Conner) we must credit with over three years' active service, and unswerving fidelity to the end. He entered the service as a private in a Vermont regiment when Sumter was fired upon, and came home to his native State after serving his time out. He re-enlisted in the Seventh Regiment Maine Volunteers in August, 1861 and served till December, '63, when he was commissioned Colonel of the Nineteenth Regiment Maine Volunteers, and for a time took command of the brigade in which his regiment was included. At the battle of the Wilderness, May 6, 1864, he was seriously wounded by a musket-ball, and taken to Fredericksburg, and from there to Douglass Hospital, Washington, D. C., where he remained until July, 1865, when he was removed to his home at Kendall's Mills, suffering from his wounds up to the present day. He was appointed and commissioned a full Brigadier-General of Volunteers by the President of the United States, as an honorable recognition of gallant and meritorious services.

Now, under these circumstances and facts, we ask the young men or the old men, or any man, woman or child, which of the two is entitled to the more credit in a military point of view. In short, the one gave all he had and could give to his country, paid in full with his service and his blood. The other came home in September, 1863, and resigned, forwarding his resignation November 18, 1862, and was discharged by special order January 10, 1863. In the meantime (November, 1862) Colonel Roberts wrote the Governor of Maine that "it would have been pleasing to myself and friends to have received a Brigadier-General's appointment, but a good Colonel is worth more than scores of cheap Brigadiers, so I will try and recruit myself, and, if the rebellion continues, will offer myself as a candidate for two stars, or else retain the bird."

SECOND MAINE.

Thieving Tramps.

[FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

CHARLESTON, July 27.

Tuesday morning last, about 7 o'clock, two tramps, one of them having but one arm, called at the house of Rev. John Johnson, in this village, and wanted some breakfast, saying they had nothing to pay for it. Mrs. Johnson kindly went about getting them a breakfast, leaving them alone in the sitting room a short time. They ate their breakfast and went on their way. At night Mr. Johnson went to get his watch to wind up, as usual, and it was missing. It was a good watch, with a large silver chain, and hung in the room where the tramps sat down to rest, and refresh themselves; and hereafter Charleston will be a hard place for a stranger to get anything to eat at a private house. The tramps were traced to Garland. E.

THE WINTHROP BANK ROBBERY

THE BOSTON PRISONERS.

The Boston Journal gives the following account of the failure to identify the three men arrested. In that city:

Notwithstanding the identification of two of the prisoners by the stage driver Foster, two men who had far greater opportunities of scrutinizing the features of the accused had entirely negatived his assertions. In response to telegrams from the city detectives, Deputy Sheriff Carr, of Winthrop, accompanied by Mr. H. L. Williams, the Boston Express Messenger, and Officer John Beals, the keeper of the restaurant at the same station, arrived in this city Thursday evening, and were confronted with the prisoners. They all came, and they had a chance to scrutinize the parties under arrest. The men whom Messrs. Williams and Beals of Lewis's lunch room had an opportunity to study well during the three hours in which they waited about the station and ate their dinner, are not the men who were arrested by the Boston detectives, that is, if the memory of faces is strongly developed in the parties who came here expecting to identify and take back some of the men who committed this mail robbery, since they all declare quite readily that they are not the men whom they have associated with the crime.

On the contrary, the men, Shekell or Shedelle, Anderson and Ford, have a happy facility of accounting for their whereabouts on the day of and preceding the robbery. Shekelle, or "Big George," as he is advertised, informed the officers here that on Thursday night they stopped in the Albion Hotel in Montreal. An inquiry was sent and an answer received to the effect that their names were registered there on the night in question. Shekle also informed the officers that he stopped at the Canadian House, Ottawa, on the day preceding the robbery, and this statement has been verified by telegraphic despatches.

Under the circumstances the Boston detect ves think they have done all they can in the premises, and as no further evidence against the prisoners was adduced, their photographs having been taken, they were discharged.

The following board of directors have been elected by the corporators of the Gardiner Savings Institution: Jos. S. Bradstreet, F. Richards, J. S. Mitchell, Wm. Palmer, C. A. White, Edward Robinson, Jas. Stone, Robert Thompson; These elected Robert Thompson, President; Jos. S. Bradstreet, Treasurer, and E. S. Webster, Solicitor.

The Home Journal says that Gardiner has just built a 16,000 gallon reservoir.

THE FAIRY FLOWER.

I presume the meadow grass
Is jealous toward the flower,
Sneered little Bluebell
All in a shower.

"Hi-ro! oh, Hiro!
Where are you going?
Never mind answering,
I'm your swift flowing!

Oh, little Bluebell!
How can I wait?
The miller will chide me,
The boats will be late!

Easy-slowly! oh, Rain drinks
Where we run dying;
I see so shiney,
Smiling and dryng!

Oh, little Bluebell!
Alas! in the air
The storm king is sailing,
And we must be there.

Hollow, dear Rolph!
Soon so oft,
Will you see at the river brink
Shrinking your cup?

So, little Bluebell!
Up, open your eyes,
Lest a kind shower of tears
Should drown you in sighs.

Hope! the Bluebell
Raised her sky petals;
Drew up and swung,
Her pride and fear!

Unknown fell the spotlight,
And far came the flute
Wailing ring: "Dear Bluebell,
We're sorry I've lost!"

We are not strong,
But the flower on the river,
Is more or less powerful
For help we can give her—

So sounds and the sprinkle,
The storm might through
Silver feathered,
The kisses of the lily!

A flower with Bluebell
Had gratefully up,
Hugs and thanks effects—
The flowers in her cup.

METRIC SYSTEM OF WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

The following circular, containing an explanation of the system to use the Metric system of weights and measures in the United States, was issued by the Secretary of the Treasury in 1866, and since that time the system has been introduced into several countries of 500 inhabitants. Every year it grows in favor, and has received such flattering notices. Magazines had previously been published in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis, Baltimore, Portland, New Brunswick, New Orleans, and Canada, and over eighty other cities and towns, the permission has been granted, and issues one number of each publication is sent to the Secretary of the Treasury, and the amounts to 100 nearly 2,000 subscribers.

In this manner the public has been brought to the notice of this pledge of the nature of the scientific principles of the system, and the engineers, and engineers, and engineers, and
